Marie-Jolle Parent : 300 Reasons to Love San Francisco before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised 300 Reasons to Love San Francisco:

Forget conventional travel guides and discover the real San Francisco!She loves Art Deco and the latest techno music. She grows organic vegetables on her rooftops and has some of the greatest cuisine in the world. Whether youve already fallen for the city that inspired Jack Kerouac, Harvey Milk and Twitter, or you're getting ready for your first encounter, this book will be a revelation. Get ready to meet San Francisco. You'll go exploring with Marie-Jolle Parent, who knows the city like an old friend. She'll take you for picnics at the top of its skyscraper and to surfing lessons at cozy beaches. She'll bring you into secret vineyards and invite you for an unforgettable meal, with the Golden Gate Bridge as a backdrop. You can check out countercultural hotspots and the headquarters of Google; visit a forest with thousand-year-old redwoods and the house-museum of a legendary artist; sample the most authentic pastries in Japantown; and comb through the racks of a store that's every hipster's ultimate dream. You'll have more than enough reasons to fall in love with the city that's as eccentric as it is irresistible.

About the Author Since 2009, MARIE-JOLLE PARENT's articles, interviews, reports and photos have appeared in many publications and on different media (Sun Media, QMI Agency, Le Journal de Montréal, The Huffington Post, La Presse, CBC/Radio-Canada, etc.) She hosts the segment Vie américaine (American Life) on CBC/Radio-Canada's Gravel le matin program, and she maintains a level of activity on social media that rivals that of anyone in New York City, where she has lived for the last seven years. She is well loved by the public, with 23 900 followers on Twitter and 17 100 on Instagram. Her Instagram account, which compiles over 10 000 photos of New York, was named among the top 10 accounts to follow by French magazine Le Nouvel Observateur.
