From Library JournalAiming to minimize frustration and hazard while improving the knowledge and planning capability of handicapped visitors, this well-written book is truly helpful. Organized alphabetically, it rates 30 parks from Acadia to Zion in terms of weather, safety, medical and support services, transportation, publications, facilities, policies, and unique situations. Symbols readily identify special programs for the visually, hearing, or developmentally impaired. Bound with a spiral spine that permits opening flat on a lap, and with pages and type large enough for quick use, this is recommended for libraries with handicapped patrons.Carolyn I.
