I didn't have a clue as to what to expect or even do with my time before I bought this book. Husband kept on saying "we will figure it out". NO! It doesn't work that way. I wasn't about to spend so much money to travel to Alaska and then spend my free time there on the web reading about what I couldn't afford or could have had. Although the author's price ranges may be a little on the low end, the links in the book were sound and I could get to where I needed on line to print off my own brochures. The book is comprehensive and will be an addendum to trip. I started reading this on my 8" and moved to my laptop for convenience sake. But, I didn't need to. I am so glad I bought the digital version. I'm taking the book with me on my tablet. I hope, I haven't look yet. But, I hope Moon has a great book like this for next year when we visit Arizona.9 of 9 people found the following review helpful. Very informativeBy kimbaThis is a very thorough and helpful guide. It's helped us decide to make some big changes to our itinerary for our upcoming trip to Alaska and I think our journey will be vastly improved because of it. It's well-written and interesting and there's even some humor in it as well. The guide gives quite a bit of back story information and history for the towns and areas covered as well as everything you need to know for lodging, dining, activities, and nightlife. The only thing I don't like is that the Kindle version has only black and white photos. I'm assuming there are color photos in the print version and, if so, I think the electronic version should have those as well.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Very Helpful for the specific areas in the titleBy Connie from WashingtonWe stayed a few days north of Anchorage and then 6 days in the Kenai. The info was always accurate and gave us confidence to get out and explore. Provided helpful info on attractions and vendors for excursion and tours.

About the AuthorPerhaps Don Pitcher's love of travel came about because he moved so much as a child; by age 15 he had lived in six states and two dozen East Coast and Midwestern towns. Don's family hails from Maine, but he was born in Atlanta, making him a southerner with New England blood. He moved west for college, receiving a master's degree from the University of California, Berkeley, where his thesis examined wildfires in the high elevation forests of Sequoia National Park. When his first (and only) scientific paper was published, he appeared to be headed into the world of ecological research. Don then landed what seemed like the coolest job on the planet shortly after grad school: being flown around Alaska's massive Wrangell-St. Elias National Park in a helicopter while conducting fire research. Wild places continued to beckon, and over the next 15 years Don built backcountry trails, worked as a wilderness ranger, mapped grizzly bear habitats, and operated salmon weirs anything to avoid an office job. After that first season in Alaska, he spent three months in the South Pacific, and quickly found himself addicted to travel. His explorations eventually took him to 35 countries and all 50 states. After authoring his first book, Berkeley Inside/Out, Don went on to write Moon Yellowstone Grand Teton, Moon Alaska, Moon Wyoming, Moon San Juan Islands, and Moon Anchorage, Denali the Kenai Peninsula. He has produced three photographic books, served as editor for Best Places Alaska, and is a contributor to TripOrati.com and other websites. Don's photos have appeared in a multitude of publications and advertisements, and his prints are sold in many Alaska and Washington galleries. He is also a highly regarded wedding photographer. Don lives in Homer, Alaska, with his wife, Karen Shemet, and their children, Aziza and Rio.
