following review helpful. Great Book On Baltimore By The Footpath Cowboy MOON BALTIMORE is a great book focusing on Baltimore, Maryland's largest city, and its surrounding areas. Many people see the Charm City as Washington, D.C.'s poor second cousin, but that's a fallacy, as Baltimore has plenty of great things of its own to interest people. This is the most up-to-date book on Baltimore currently available, so buy the Kindle version, as I have, and then get the hard copy, as I plan to for the holidays.

As a Baltimore native, travel writer Jennifer Walker knows the ins and outs of Charm City, from browsing galleries in Station North to catching a game at MT Bank Stadium. Walker also includes unique trip ideas tailored for all time constraints and interests, such as the Two-Day Best of Baltimore itinerary. With updated maps and details on everything from visiting the National Aquarium to finding the best food in Little Italy, Moon Baltimore gives travelers the tools they need to create a more personal and memorable experience.

About the Author Jennifer Walker's maternal great-grandparents were two of the estimated 15,000 Polish immigrants who settled in the waterfront community of Fell's Point in Baltimore around the turn of the 20th century. This family history gives her strong ties to the city and is one of the many reasons that, after several years in New York, she returned home. Jennifer was married on the winding staircase in the American Visionary Art Museum in Federal Hill and lives in the city with her husband Kenny and their young daughter Delancey. Jennifer got her start as a writer with a travel piece about her experience studying abroad in London, which ran in The Baltimore Sun. Since then, her work has appeared in Baltimore's STYLE magazine, Saveur, Urbanite, and SmartCEO. She also contributes regularly to several publications of the Johns Hopkins University, where she earned a graduate degree in nonfiction writing. When she isn't writing, Jennifer can be found running, baking, visiting the Kids Room at the Maryland Science Center with her daughter, or exploring Baltimore's varied neighborhoods.
